

Richard Adkins, 2014

What Career are you in, and what sort of things does this entail?

Economic Consulting - high stakes litigation involving multinational companies

What inspired you to go into your chosen career?

Mr Guildford pushed me to do econometrics at university. Where I ended up was a natural progression from that.

What advice would you give to anyone interested in working in your career area?

Study hard in maths. Also practice writing in a report style. Always prep for interviews with your friends before doing them.

What do you know now, that you wish you'd known when you were leaving Malbank?

Don't make a tonne of job applications to jobs you don't actually want to do. Make better, high quality jobs at places you care about.
