

Jordan Ryan, 2007

What Career are you in, and what sort of things does this entail?

Involved in hydraulics (engineering) system design and resale. Business development manager which involves travel national and international.

What inspired you to go into your chosen career?

Maths was my strongest point and engineering was always something I wanted to do.

What advice would you give to anyone interested in working in your career area?

Engineering is such a broad field, find a specialty and aim towards that. Hydraulics is an industry that currently struggles for young blood, wages are good and it's a career for life.

What do you know now, that you wish you'd known when you were leaving Malbank?

Keep your head down and work hard, the short period of time in education has an impact on your future 40odd year career.
