

Richard Goodwin, 2001

What Career are you in, and what sort of things does this entail?

Im now a Shareholder and a Director of an ever growing Insurance Broker but still local to Nantwich following a stint away

What inspired you to go into your chosen career?

I'd love to know this answer myself, I don't, ha. I think I've always had a pretty good 'people person' skill and I'm a firm believer of a 'people buy off people'

What advice would you give to anyone interested in working in your career area?

Just take everything in your stride! Don't go busting your bollox or beating yourself up on disappointment, as the opposite certainly outweighs it, this isn't just in my line of work, but life in general. Friends, family, work, we all have questions and challenges, just navigate round them along with taking good advice

What do you know now, that you wish you'd known when you were leaving Malbank?

I think it's a case of learn from what didn't go so well and make sure it doesn't happen again. For me, life's a lesson, no matter how old. I for one am I massive believe in this and it pays true in how you approach a circumstance in another environment, you experience how you maybe shouldn't address it, to learn and then approach it differently again
