

Simon Holdcroft, 2004

What Career are you in, and what sort of things does this entail?

I own my own business designing and building control panels for renewable energy

What inspired you to go into your chosen career?

I was always interested in electrical engineering but was made redundant from a company similar so with no job and a child to provide for, I decided to take the crazy step and do it myself

What advice would you give to anyone interested in working in your career area?

Work hard and you'll soon reap the rewards within the renewable energy sector

What do you know now, that you wish you'd known when you were leaving Malbank?

Renewable energy would have such a vital part to play throughout the world
